Your social life and cancer

About this easy read booklet

This booklet is about your social life when you have cancer.

You can learn about how your social life may change when you have cancer.

If you are worried about your health, you should talk to a doctor or nurse.

Your social life and cancer

Having cancer and treatment for cancer will change your life.

You may find that you do not have the energy to do all the things you used to enjoy, like going out with friends.

It is important that you do not stop doing things you enjoy.

You can make it easier for yourself by:

- Not trying to do too much, and doing things for a shorter time.

- Making sure you have a rest before you do something.

- Telling your friends that you would like to spend some time with them doing quieter things.

- If you want to go to the pub, you can have soft drinks instead of having alcohol. This means it won't affect your treatment.

- Talk to your friends about how you are feeling. They will want to listen and help. But they might not ask about it because they are worried about upsetting you.

How Macmillan can help you

You can get support from:

- The Macmillan Support Line. Call 0808 808 00 00 7 days a week, 8am to 8pm.

- The Macmillan website. Visit macmillan.org.uk for lots of information about cancer and living with cancer.

- Information centres. At an information centre, you can talk to a cancer support specialist and get written information.

Find your nearest centre at macmillan.org.uk/informationcentres or call us. Your hospital might have a centre.

- Local support groups. Find a group near you at macmillan.org.uk/supportgroups or call us.

- The Macmillan Online Community. You can talk to other people in similar situations at macmillan.org.uk/community
